CARING FOR FARM HORSES

By Observing a Few Precautions Farmer May Avoid Loss of Time, Expense and Infury to Antmals.

(By H. E. KINGMAN) A horse cannot do satisfactory work with shoulders that pain him every time he takes a step. The horse may be looked upon as a machine that is expected to do so much work, and if some of the mechanism is out of order then the amount of work is lessened But, also, the animal must be looked upon as a creature with feeling and ambition, taking pride in its wors, that is a willing obedient and therefore valuable servant, and should be properly cared for

The first thing of importance to consider in the draught horse is the collar. Most of the injured shoulders are the result of poorly fitting collars, and the fault usually lies in a collar being too large. It is a good idea to have a harness maker fit the collars to your horses. He may be able to remove padding and in other ways make the coilar over so that it will fit nicely. Heavy collar pads are to be avoided if possible. They are hot and cause the shoulders to sweat; this keeps the pad and shoulder wet, and the skin becomes soft and blisters easily.

Dirty collars are probably as responsible for sores houlders as ill fitting ones, in the spring especially, when the horse's hair is long. He is soft from lack of work, and sweats profusely. This forms a gummy dirt that adheres to the collar and makes, when dry, a hard, rough surface. The ordinary farm hand feels that his duty is done if he scrapes the dirt from the collar with the back of his jackknife. This method, however, is not an especially every crop grown in the rotation that good one for the leather of the collar, is followed in growing food for his and a smooth surface is not left. A damp sponge used in the evening as soon as the collar is taken off will, in one or two minutes, remove the dirt. This may be followed by an oiled rug; if this is done the collar in the morning should be soft and smooth.

the shoulders with cold water-just plain cold water. Alum water has been used to good advantage; also weak solutions of tannic acid. Alcohol tends to toughen the skin.

The injuries to the top of the neck very frequently terminate in fistulas, withers, etc. A blister near the point of the shoulder is likely to become a callens and form what is known as a "cold abscess." Ill-fitting collars and poor drivers are equally responsible for a condition known as "sweeny."

TRUCK FARMING WITH DAIRY

Difficult to Conceive of More Profitable Type of Agriculture Than Judictons Blending of Two.

The truck farmer who is farming without manure maintains the supply of nitrogen in his soil by the use of legumes and buys a fertilizer richin phosphoric acid and potash. In this way be secures a better balanced fertilizer than the dairyman who uses manure rich in nitrogen and deficient in the mineral elements on clover sod that is already rich in nitrogen.

Now as nitrogen is the most expensive element of fertility we can readily see how much more profitable it would be for the dairy farmer to lengthen his rotation one year and grow some highly organized market crop that would sell for more than enough to pay for the purchased grain foods required to feed the dairy cows.

in this way he would be making better use of the surplus of nitrogen and the purchase of a small amount of mineral fertilizers would enable him to greatly increase the yield of cattle.

I believe that we should try and incorporate some of the methods of soil handling practised by the trucker and market crop grower into the management of our dairy business if we succeed in deriving from it the largest and most certain profits.

It is difficult to conceive of a more profitable type of farming than a juone side, all tend to produce sore dictous blending of dairy farming and market crop growing, but in order Of course, the first precaution to to successfully combine these two take is not to ask a colt to do a full types of agriculture we must abandon

A Garden of Friends.

One of the prettiest corners of a certain girl's garden is that in which every plant has been the gift of some special friend. The sweet old fashioned flowers that bloom there have thus a double significance, and their owner persuades herself that while they flourish she may be very sure that she is not forgoten. A fragrant clump of pinks was set in place by her dear est school friend and now that this friend is living abroad, she likes to think that every breath of perfume brings her a kindly thought or her old chum. A garden of friendship is a pretty fancy and one that gives lasting pleasure.
